SCI signs a training pact with Unctad

The state-owned Shipping Corporation of India Ltd has (SCI) signed an agreement with Unctad declaring its maritime training institute (MTI) as a Trainmar Centre.

Trainmar is a body of Unctad for undertaking training in maritime transport. The agreement facilitates exchange of quality training materials, personnel and expertise between the MTI and other training centres all over the world and will be a boost for augmenting maritime training facilities in India, particularly in the managerial and commercial aspects of shipping.

The agreement was signed by Mr K. K. S. Dadzie, secretary general of Unctad Geneva, and Mr Jagdish C. Sheth, chairman and managing director of the SCI Bombay.

The SCI had earlier signed an agreement with International Maritime Organisation (IMO) whereby MTI became a branch of World Maritime University (WMU).
